

Four Decades of Surveying Europe – Perspectives on Academic Research with the European Commission's Eurobarometer Surveys

Friday July 10th 2015, Cologne Germany

Event programme (as of June 5, 2015)

09:30 - 10:00 Registration

10:00 - 10:30 Event opening

Markus Quandt (GESIS - Leibniz Institute for the Social Sciences)

Peter Granda (ICPSR)

Eurobarometer data curation: a short history

10:30 - 11:00 Keynote

Pierre Bréchon (Sciences Po, Grenoble)

The history of Eurobarometers: initial context and aims, evolutions, a fascinating database for European citizens and for research, some problems (Keynote)

11:00 - 12:00 Section 1 "European Politics"

Renaud Soufflot de Magny and David Voidies (European Commission, DG COMM A1)

Eurobarometer in 2015

Felix Roth (Georg-August-Universität Göttingen)

Crisis and trust in national and European Union institutions: panel evidence for the EU, 1999 to 2014

12:00 - 13:00 Light Lunch (at GESIS)

13:00 - 14:00 Section 2 "European People"

Emanuel Deutschmann (Jacobs University Bremen)

Doing research on transnational activity and European identity using Eurobarometer surveys: prospects and challenges

Martin W Bauer (The London School of Economics and Political Science)

Eurobarometer research potentials: public understanding of science and technology

14:00 - 15:00 Poster exhibition (see Symposium website)

15:00 - 15:30 Coffee Break

15:30 - 17:00 Section 3 „Methods & Linking“

Julien Zalc (TNS opinion, Brussels)

The Eurobarometer: tools and methods to ensure quality

Luana Russo (Maastricht University)

Multi facets of political representation: data harmonization and linking in the PolicyVotes project

Elmar Schlüter (Justus Liebig University Giessen)

Eurobarometer & Co. compared: different surveys, different results?

17:00 - 17:45 Roundtable Discussion

Perspectives for using Eurobarometer in academic research (invited statements and discussion)

17:45 Official closing of the event